Dedication

Warmth, understanding, and a deep sensitivity for her students are only a few of the qualities which have earned for Mrs. Mary Compton a special place in many of our hearts. Serving as Junior Class Sponsor, she shared the students' ideas and gained a deeper insight into their personalities. By adding a degree of humor to her mathematical equations, she maintained student interest. Former students never forget her, and are always writing to share their college experiences. To a teacher and friend who will long be remembered, we the senior Class, dedicate the 1971 Black and Gold . . . Mrs. Mary Compton.

Crisp fall nights in Bowman Gray Stadium, Friday nights in the gym, and sunny afternoons on the field—all of these bring memories of the many times we gathered to support our RJR teams. As kick-off approached, expressions of pride and determination swept over each face in the crowd, and the National Anthem faded into an uproar of cheers. Although we sometimes met a defeat, the perception of good sportsmanship was greatly understood through athletics.

Early in the season, the Demon Cagers clobbered Smith in a non-conference game 53-46 and again 15-36. However, the first few teams proved to be tough for the Demons to defeat. As usual, layoff of team members because of grades and illness hurt RJR this year.

Head Coach Otis Hawkins worked many hours with the team to coordinate its strategy plans. The Reynolds' offense was greatly improved during the middle of the season. Many hours of practice in the gym helped to eliminate unnecessary ball handling and turnovers. About mid-season, the varsity players were shooting on an average of 70 times a game, and came out of their early slump by defeating East 75-53 in an important conference game.

Team finishes with even season — 3 wins, 3 losses

Kicking, passing, and dribbling down the field in the late afternoon sunshine, the Girls Varsity Speedball team, coached by Mrs. Brower, practiced diligently each afternoon to turn in a successful season. After playing a slate of six games, each of the thirty members of the team, through victory and defeat, learned the necessity of teamwork.

After the packing away of the basketballs, and preparing for spring's warm weather and outdoor sports, eighteen girls practiced strenuously in the girls' gym for the varsity volleyball team. Coached by Mrs. Brower, who often actively participated in practice games herself, the girls played well in contests against North, West, East, Mt. Tabor, Parkland, and Atkins, with last year's championship still in their minds. The girls showed true sportsmanship, a characteristic which the volleyball team always displayed

Batters tense in hot sun

With the approach of warm weather approximately nineteen girls gathered on the Hanes Field softball diamond after school to practice batting, pitching, fielding, and catching, after gaining positions on the Girls Varsity Softball team. Before each practice, several laps around the track in the afternoon heat proved hot and tiring to the determined girls, but all of this conditioning payed off in the softball games, which were held in the afternoons after school Coached by Mrs. Zink, the girls practiced skills and game strategy by playing against each other in intra-squad games.

Concentration, memorization = quality education for all

The foreign language department, which includes Latin. French, Spanish, German, plays a vibrant role in the daily life at Reynolds. With the help of the language lab, managed by Mrs. Hamrick, students are able to hear a native speaker, and then respond, following as close to the diction of the speaker as possible. Then a tape may be played back, enabling the student to hear his own voice.

Along with the language lab, the department, headed by Mrs.

Margaret McDermott, offers films and records to the classes. Through these aids, the language students learn many of the native people.

Club meetings of the foreign languages provide a chance for students to express themselves in the language which they are studying, whether it be dining at a Roman banquet, the singing of traditional French carols at Christmas, a German "fest", or the breaking of the pinota.

Art proves to be a refuge for imaginative effort

Offering the media for selfexpression, Art classes promote an atmosphere of understanding our fellowman. Fears, thoughts and social problems are presented with one's viewpoint for all to conceive individually. Creativity and imagination are dominant factors, thus stimulating interest. So are the mysteries of Art revealed For some, music is a stimulus, to others, a career; and to others, the realities of life. The Reynolds Band and chorus contain a number of all. They also realize the varied audiences for which they play, thus they are able to present all forms of Music. At times, these forces are unified Remember: "Let There Be Peace On Earth"?

Semor Introduction

During our three years it Revually were grown heards and sus tained beliefs. We've won with joy; and we have lost with sorrow We've fought bravely; and we've conceded nobly. We've innocently understood, and we ve naively wondered. We have experienced, and we've anticipated. Now with eager apprehension, we look forward to a vast, pulsating world somewhere beyond these ivy walls and columned entrances.

Free lunch program started

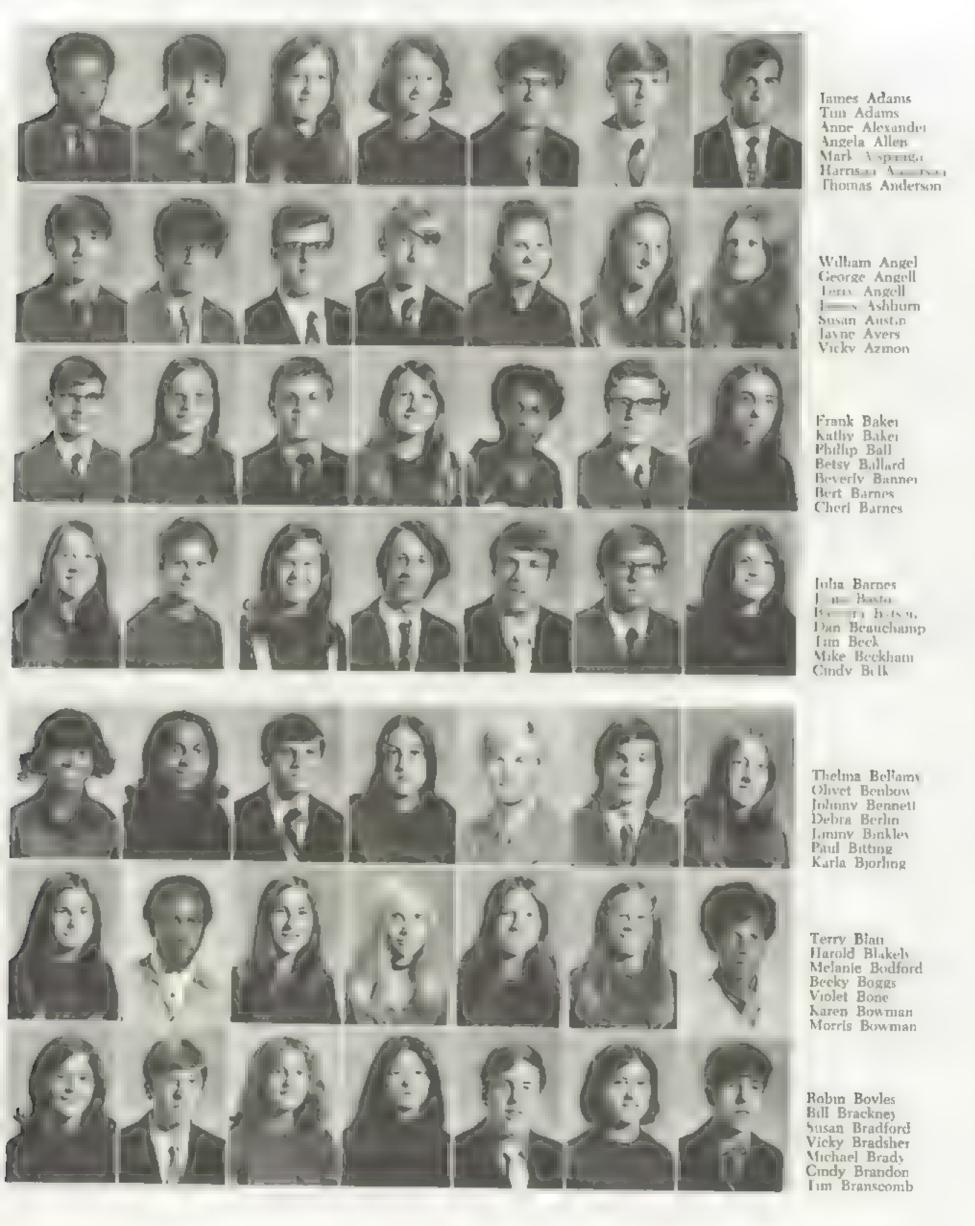

While not as significant perhaps as the sophomore or senior years, the junior year was meaningful in several respects. It was the first year students became actively involved in Reynolds' many clubs and service organizations. Rising juniors elected to office last year assumed important roles in student government. Some juniors were inducted into the NHS. Free of senior pressures, juniors had the opportunity to give quiet thought to their future goals lunior Class Officera: Jimmy Binkley, Vice-President, I isa Frazier, Treasurer; Dickey Hedrick, President, Melanie Pennell, Secretary.

New responsibilities accepted

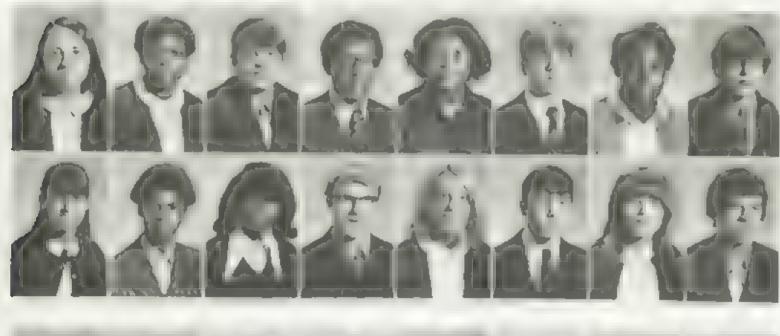

Entering Reynolds High School for the first time last fall we as sophomores realized what a giant step we were taking — represented not only by added work but also by additional responsibilities

Our year now ends and we look ahead to the time when we will be juniors with chances for induction into the National Honor Society an additional study hall each week, and more prestige.

Sophomore Class officers: David Dalt m. V. Pres., Sue Georgoulias, Secretary; John Miller, Freusurer, Cindy Sharpe, President

Annual proves 'big hassle'

standing in a field in late winter, trees like black etching against the red-orange sunset no one there but a dog, everyone else in warmly-lighted homes cating supper watching a flock of birds wander across the sky, and thinking about the snowmen i made when i was a child, exhibitated with the cold the smell of pine logs burning pungent in the biting air and in more recent times your comforting warmth golden hair and smiling and walking across the field the dog following close behind the realization strikes at that i have become old

Graduation has filled us with pride fun 1 have a nut and exuberant joy, but our happiness is slightly dimmed as we realize that the time has come to say farewell to our many friends. Although we no longer will be following the same footsteps, the experiences gained with the people of Reynolds will remain with us in years to come. With a stronger perception of life's realities we prepare to walk through her doors for the final time to travel a new and challenging road of life

Kathering Hod to!!! say pritiske last a read ast vill most was perfectly horrible, history was boring, English rudiculous, etc. But the besides school activities were fur, Kennenper the pianie ! I'll have yoke know that the short I'm wearing today is the one I word at the picnic and what I got best of the clase after the third time it was BROWN mon had a hard time aptiling the muck cost! House a for surrous + sas ga rest Noor, Edizabeth, better known as "dig" Rotherine: Dt has even an experience in not buring you and having you in my alguera II class. Dood luck in the outure in being a marine luologist. Idane a nice summer! Oulean Derosky hatheine howen't Known of hoven't Known and has been a pleasure of head and way, we had be and and heap you and and heap you and see you and his summer. See you said
